

It is about time to face it
Surrender and then start again
I don't know if I could make it
But there is gotta come an end
If I stay in this place every hour is another day
Let the walls come falling down and fear washes away

Running forever
Longing for your love so cool
To something better
I'll never stop following you

So may the world rise up to meet me
And may the wind be at my back
All of this will soon be over
I don't think I'll be coming back
Though I fear what is to come I'm a soldier running, try to see
At the end of the world someone holds out for me

Running forever
Longing for your love so cool
To something better
I'll never stop following you

Running forever
Longing for your love so cool
To something better
I'll never stop following you

I was longing for your love
Longing for your love so cool

Running forever
Longing for your love so cool
To something better
I'll never stop following you

Let's run forever
Looking for your love so cool
To something better
I'll never stop following you