

Party Chambers

The Style Council

Back in the party chambers
Laughter, records loud
I guess my guests are alright
They won't miss me for awhile

'Cause I need to be alone
Let me sink in sadness
'Cause I can't forget her
She was on my mind and
Try as I might, I spend all my time
Thinking 'bout her

And I walk to the water's edge of the Lake and I gaze at my reflection
And for a moment I think I see her
But the wind blows her away

(And meanwhile)
Back in the party chambers
Restless guests, they get
And so I entertain them
But it's not myself

I can't wait until they go
Let me sink in sadness
'Cause I can't forget her
She was on my mind and
Try as I might I spend all my time
Thinking 'bout her
