your voice keeps breaking through my eyes unformatted memories are too loud still my bones keep melting in the fucking pot of zero and one distorted views of my brain the flow is ripping the rest of my skin i try to hold and wait for light mutual assured destruction fucking self-crucification wish I could change this reboot, restart, reset, reject my faith was backed up together with all my dreams tape rolled off around your body you are locking up my path and I pray to get one more try shutting up console of my heart I feel concrete filling my lungs

my mind
debugging my mind your mind

running through the valley swimming in the river taking back all my life light...burning...suffocating...mind
