

Black Roses

The Tea Party

Watch it unfold, beautiful lady
See how the sun brightens the day
I know it's lost, slowly it's breaking
I guess that's the cost, walking away

Let's have another glass of wine
It's in these moments that we'll find

All of those years, all of those memories
Never will fade, beautiful friend
Yeah, we were young, lovelorn and helpless
Breaking my heart, until the end

Let's have another glass of wine
I'm sure we can find the time
'Cause we've got to see this through
I guess it's up to you now

I guess I should have sent, black roses
But all my money's spent, black roses
They're climbing up the fence, black roses
I guess I should have sent

But all of those years, all of those memories
Breaking my heart, until the end

Let's have another glass of wine
I'm sure we can find the time
'Cause we've got to see this through
I guess it's up to you now

I guess I should have sent, black roses
But all my money's spent, black roses
They're climbing up the fence, black roses
I guess I should have sent

I guess I should have sent, black roses
But all my money's spent, black roses
They're climbing up the fence, black roses
I guess I should have sent, black roses

I guess I should have sent, black roses
But all my money's spent, black roses
They're climbing up the fence, black roses
I guess I should have sent, black roses

Hey, babe, what should I do? Black roses
I gotta find a lover and she gotta be you, black roses
Hey, babe, what should I do? Black roses
I gotta find a lover and she better be you, black roses
Black roses

Oh, I guess I should have sent, black roses
I guess I should have sent, black roses
Oh, I should have sent now, baby, black roses
Black roses

I guess I should have sent, black roses
I guess I should have sent, black roses
Black roses
Black roses
Black roses
Black roses
