If there's trouble in paradise you don't belive that it will hurt you The lines in the book and the lines on your face Are fragments in a cosmic puzzle.

Everything is covered by a veil of secrecy But there's always someone who belives in destiny.

My secret's a secret and will always be
I haven't got the heart to tell you
I lie to your face while you're lieing with me
You never even guess the danger.

Everything is covered by a veil of secrecy But there's always someone who belives in destiny.

You see me You see me laugh The puppets dance And no one knows About the game of chance.

How do you feel when the night closes in Are you frightened by the darkness Where's the solution that lulls you to sleep It the deep of night is endless.

Everything is covered by a veil of secrecy But there's always someone who belives in destiny.

You see me You see me laugh The puppets dance And no one knows About the game of chance.

Everything is covered by a veil of secrecy But there's always someone who belives in destiny.

This is joke that nobody knows it's a gift to the present it's made for the future it's a precious joke it's all I own.

You see me....