Heroes

The Virus

One time my father said to me
When you grow up, you be the best man you can be
When I look back on how fucked up my life has gone
He said, Well son that's the thing that will make you strong

I never said that I knew what was right or wrong Because all my heroes are long gone

There's no heroes any more

One time, One cry No heroes, No more All of this time I had been wrong

I see a man there on TV With lots of fame, lots of pride, lots of money He probably hates his wife He probably beats his kids He'll never have respect for all the things he did

I never said that I knew what was right or wrong Because all my heroes are long gone
And no one ever told me just what I should be
All I ever had was me