

Glastonbury Song

The Waterboys

I dreamed myself from the sultry plains
To the old green square back in old Maybole
I rode the wind up to Stornaway
Paused at the peak, pacified my soul

Caught the bus in the fiery fort
I made it to the mansion on the Boyne
See I come around to the ancient ways
I took a tip from the Buddha boy

I just found God
Yeah, I just found God
Yeah, I just found God where he always was

We came down from the hill of dreams
Bernadette, mother earth and you and me
Through Carraroe, down the wild wood side
Blinding our eyes in the shallow seas

Drank fire with the King of the Blues
Plugged into the medicine way
Took a long last look at Crazy Horse
Push now for a golden age

I just found God
Yeah, I just found God
Yeah, I just found God where he always was

Found myself on the roof of the world
Just awaiting for to get my wings
Strange angel in the changing light
Said, "Brother, you forgot something"

My heartbeat from the inside out
So lucky just to be alive
Can you tell what I'm talking about?
Any day now the sun's gonna rise

I just found God
Yeah, I just found God
Yeah, I just found God where he always was
Hey, I just found God where he always was

There is a green hill far away
I'm going back there one fine day
There is a green hill far away
I'm going back there one fine day

There is a green hill far away
I'm going back there one fine day
There is a green hill far away
I'm going back there one fine day

One fine day
One fine day
One fine day
