

One Love, One Life, One Girl

The Wildhearts

The one, the where, the why
The home below the sky
The only thing that men will sing about
Throughout the world
One love, one life and one girl

The light you gave to me
That even I can see
If beauty shines like a precious stone
Then you're the only pearl
One love, one life, one girl

And maybe there'll be times
It seems the height is too big to climb for two
And maybe there'll be days where we forget
It's just a phase to get through
And we always make it through, we always do
We always do

The one, the where, the why
That all is measured by
The toughest fall when beauty calls
And see how small we curl?
One love, one life and one girl
One love, one life and one girl
