

The Only One

The Wildhearts

These are the words that I've saved
Saved for the perfect day
But they won't get used
If I keep waiting on you

This is the way that I feel
I wish that it wasn't real
But it's more than true
I can't keep waiting on you

So open your eyes and see where I'm standing
Straight in your line of sight so you
Should make up your mind
Do what it is that you need to
'cause I'm not leaving

You are the only one that I think about
When I'm down and out and miles away
You are the only one, when we're falling out
I want to make it better

These are the words that I should have told you
All of the times that I just ignored you
I would give you everything I have
So let's just start all over again

Now that the games we've played
Were stripped down and thrown away
I can clearly see
That you've been waiting on me

So open your eyes and see where I'm standing
Straight in your line of sight so you
Should make up your mind
Do what it is that you need to
'cause I'm not leaving

You are the only one that I think about
When I'm down and out and miles away
You are the only one, when we're falling out
I want to make it better

These are the words that I should have told you
All of the times that I just ignored you
I would give you everything I have
So let's just start all over again

Bygones are bygones
And they should stay that way
We've got the world at our fingers
Let's stick it back together
We could make it better
We could make it better

You are the only one that I think about
When I'm down and out and miles away
You are the only one, when we're falling out

I want to make it better

These are the words that I should have told you
All of the times that I just ignored you
I would give you everything I have
So let's just start all over again
