

I Fell In Love With A Ninja Master

The Wonder Years

With a smoke bomb you're gone and I'm alone.
I'm waiting for you to get home,
tired of sitting here with the swords you own.
I'm starting to worry about you.
Your skin is always black and blue.
You can't defend this city all alone, it's true.

But I'm forced away (it's nunchucks to the face).
I'm missing your warm but deadly embrace.
And I can't make out the shape of your face.
You've masked it with all your honor and grace.

Let's not say you broke my heart.
You pierced it with a throwing star.
It was an accident. I know your aim is off.
Jump kicks are getting hard to miss.
All I wanted was a kiss.
It's getting really hard to live like this.

But I'm forced away (it's nunchucks to the face).
I'm missing your warm but deadly embrace.
And I can't make out the shape of your face.
You've masked it with all your honor and grace.

You've been throwing stars at my heart
Now we've come this far. I should have seen it all from the start.
And I see that it's finally time to part.
You fucked me up with your poison dart.
So
You've been throwing stars at my heart
Now we've come this far. I should have seen it from the start.
I should have seen it from the fucking start
From the fucking start.