

The Words To Say

The Years Gone By

I've bits of you
And all my troubles go away
But the thought of the sun set with you, and through the day

I just wanna hold you underneath the twilight
With stars all by your brown eyes tonight
And they know I never have all the words to say
I'm never looking back on the past, only what's today

And It's so hard to think that you're gone
I will keep on asking myself who was strong

And we won't let the good times fade away
And we won't ever look back on yesterday
