

Everything Is Held Now

This Beautiful Mess

i will jump overboard and wade on to the shore before it's not too late i will run up to meet you and tell you that i need you so and you will take me home don't be a stranger now throw your arms around me i know i can't go without you i will take the leap of faith straight into your arms where everything is falling into place and everything is fitting into place again you will see me coming you knew i would be back you've waited for me every day as if i never went away nothing to fear
nothing to doubt everything
everything is held now