

In Wolves

This or the Apocalypse

Your life isn't everything you thought but so what? I know. I know you think you're examining everything and constantly rehearsing it all. Your head is weakening, held down by fear. You're so young you shouldn't be afraid of anything. Our lives are the sum of what we all accomplish, so stand with me now. Fists up if you've got broken bones.

You still could knock their teeth in and send them running home. Funny how they always run when you get back up. See your path. Make it yours. Hold your head. Stop letting them break you cause there is a fire you can walk through. So let the war begin!

Stop running away from who you are cause time is lost so quickly. Take your mistakes for what they are - it's just part of being human and learning to fall.

Stop trying to escape your disaster. I want to see you believing in what you are. Stop trying to explain yourself cause life's too short to be the dust on the top shelf.

Stop running away from who you are cause time is lost so quickly. Take your mistakes for what they are - it's just part of being human and learning to fall. Stop running away from who you are cause life goes by so quickly. Take your mistakes for what they are - it's the art of being human and learning to fall.

You were born to think for yourself, but that's not good for them - that's not what they want. They want you to hate yourself and everything around so that your world can stay a crowded jail cell where the worst is always expected. Where the worst is always expected and the scraps are never good enough.

It only takes one stone to knock a king out cold. You've rested long enough; I want to see you get back up. See your path. Make it yours. Hold your head. Stop letting them break you cause there is a fire you can walk through. So let the war begin!

Stop running away from who you are cause time is lost so quickly. Take your mistakes for what they are - it's just part of being human and learning to fall. Stop running away from who you are cause time is lost so
