A Bone To Pick

Those Poor Bastards

I've got a bone to pick, with your husband don't think he'll live through it, they never do

I'll take him down to the river I'll weigh him down with stones don't mean to scare you, sister just thought you should know just thought you should know