No more excuses You can't always hide from blame The coward never owns up to his mistakes You can't convince me You're only fooling yourself You can't play me like a fool You won't play me like a fool So go and give your excuse It means nothing to me Why are you always running You can't even look at me when you speak The guilt you carry It's unnecessary I love how you justify You've been lying all your life I'm not gonna stand here and listen anymore You're always finding ways To try and escape your blame You always walk away Why don't you turn around and look at me Why are you always running You can't even look at me when you speak The guilt you carry It's unnecessary I love how you justify You've been lying all your life I'm not gonna stand here and listen anymore So go ahead and try to convince me It's just an excuse Does it help you sleep at night when you lie to yourself Does it make you feel any better even when you know you're wron