

Embrace The Sun

ThouShaltNot

Feel the grass within my dream
A million years it's grown
Unconscious lies the human form
Now no longer alone
This, this is the end of darkness
This is the gift of the wise
A silent breath cuts through and
Squalls the sand from off my eyes

Waking from eternal sleep
I'm waking from eternal sleep
Beyond the night so infinite
And through the gulf where no man stirs
I'm waking from eternal sleep
The stars will fade though I will keep
Their memory as I embrace the sun

Like breathing thoughtlessly in time
The cycles of the moon now pass
Alive again I witness who will slumber on
And who, like me, shall wake at last
All the dreamers quiet as the rays
That served as herald to the days
As now I see the path I trod
Seal off its entryway