

To Thine Own Self Be True

Threat Signal

Face down with a knife in the back
Another scar on the canvass of neglect
Feel the weight of the world crushing down on me

There is nothing left to say
The damage has all been done
Take the lies you breath and swallow them away

If I can trust myself, what have I got to lose?
To thine own self be true
I will believe myself, that's all I ever knew
To thine own self be true

The blind will lead the blind
A mass submission to suicide
Relocate the lost and forgotten
Find your truth within

There is nothing left to say
The damage has all been done
Take the lies you breath and swallow them away

If I can trust myself, what have I got to lose?
To thine own self be true
I will believe myself, that's all I ever knew
To thine own self be true

I will not be judged by your meaningless kind, devoted to lies
I seek refuge in myself

How many times I have been down this road before
I'll never lie, I'll never lie to myself again

If I can trust myself, what have I got to lose?
To thine own self be true
I will believe myself, that's all I ever knew
To thine own self be true