

Face Off

Three Years Hollow

i am the one that you always knew the first thing that you'd feel i've been there before holding you one more time again and again

give it all away
won't take it again
watching everything that you always felt slip away this time
take it all again
won't take anymore
watching everything that you never felt living in side your life

face off
i want to show you me
i'm not trying to hold you down to feel everything
it's always the same with you don't act like you've been there before and i am the one that put you in your place all the lines are crossed and i'm fighting for you now

again and again