

Remember

Three Years Hollow

You hide so much inside
Tell yourself how everything that breaks matters
Don't run away so fast this time
Tell yourself no matter what it takes you'll find the answer

When you were so far gone inside
Stand up and face today
Do you know what you want to be yet?
You'll never fall this time
With every choice in your life that you make
How will you be remembered?

Don't let this be the way you go out now, it's your time
Don't let them push you to the point of breaking down
You decide when you've given enough
Give a little more along the way
Watching as the choices that you make last forever

When you were so far gone inside
Stand up and face today
Do you know what you want to be yet?
You'll never fall this time
With every choice in your life that you make
How will you be remembered?
