Flags And Footprints

Threshold

i'm looking for a reason why i see no shooting stars tonight just a sign that everything's alright to quiet me, to quiet me maybe all i hoped was wrong maybe all i dreamed is gone maybe i was stupid all along for trying it, for trying it but i believed in what you said i trusted in your summer now the leaves are turning red and soon they'll all be coming down how can i go on if hope is what keeps me alive and i'm so uncertain

it seems the more i look for you the more i fail to find the tr uth maybe i'm affecting what i view with heavy veils and fairytales maybe my research was sound but maybe i just fooled around all flags and footprints but nothing further down to find you, to find you

but i believed in what you said i trusted in your summer now the leaves are turning red and soon they'll all be coming down how can i go on if hope is what keeps me alive and i'm so uncertain

i guess i learned the hard way or did i waste my time i never met you half way but i crossed that line and i believed in what you said i trusted in your summer now the leaves are turning red and soon they'll all be coming down how can i go on if hope is what keeps me alive maybe someday i'll know why