

do you feel that your life is in a rut that the modern world is all too much do you want to remove the pain do you want to begin again and if you need it we can re-arrange your life take away the misery the trouble and the strife coming from the darkness he is standing at the door we can feed your inner needs get you back to where you are

he is i am we are, too late you've come this far he is i am we be, give us your individuality and if you need it we will cultivate your mind saturate your character with doctrines so divine a generous contribution will secure your earthly bed grow with us in commune you'll have nothing in your head

he is i am we be, you've lost your individuality don't want to, i can't feel you just leave me be, don't need you and i wandered far away couldn't hear their thoughts no more i was swept on a tidal wave and was cast to a distant shore it was the desert of my own desires i was burnt in the searing heat my hedonism stoking up the fires of my own spiritual defeat and if you look in the mirror boy don't be ashamed of what you see i went looking for him all alone but all i found was a piece of me
