

Bonus track

in a starlit avenue the consciousness is gathering take all the things you thought you knew and discard the truth you're peddling come with us to a higher plane or you can eat the dirt you're buried in what if the wind changes what if there's ice ages? here's all that you have to do take part in the new beginning what more have you left to lose do nothing it's your decision there's enough for everyone in the automated technospheres if you still can't find the sun it's 'cuz you're trapped in a self made veil of tears what if the sea changes and valleys become mountain ranges
here's all that you have to do take part in the new beginning
what more have you left to lose do nothing it's your decision why are you so scared of things you can't change? why are you so frightened of things with no name?
if a man remains at the mercy of moods of hope and fear aroused by the outer world he loses his consistency of character such inconsistencies invariably lead to distressing experiences such humiliations often come from an unexpected quarter what if a deadly virus kills all the tea in china?
here's all that you have to do take part in the new beginning
what more have you left to lose do nothing it's your decision here's all that you have to do let go of your old religions what more have you got to lose? do nothing it's your decision