```
Faith,
is not something that I grasp it's something that I fake, as I'm slipping, as I'm falling through the cracks,
Faith
without actions is a mask, for making the same mistakes
as I'm slipping as I'm falling through the cracks.
somehow I find beauty in our failings, somehow I find meaning in these lies somehow I'm made perfect in this fracture, your back is begging sweetly for my knives, I'm spilling blood, glancing down to hide my face, I walk with eyes closed tight through monuments of grace, somehow I find beauty in our failings,
somehow I find meaning in these lies
somehow I'm made perfect in this fracture,
your back is begging sweetly for my knives!
my faith is a front, I'm spilling blood, glancing down to hide my face, I walk with eyes closed through monuments of grace, I'm spilling blood glancing down to hide my face I walk with eyes closed through monuments of grace isn't it sweet how,
trusted with angels,
and how so quickly
I break my promises?
isn't it sweet, isn't it sweet, isn't it sweet, isn't it sweet?
```