

The World Behind

Throwdown

You have everything but you're blind to see the better way out
I'd do anything but lie to make you see there's hope for you now
But at this pace you know it's only a matter of time
It's only a matter of time before those walls you build begin caving in
You know it's only a matter of time until self-destruction is your dearest friend
Your dearest friend
Now there's nothing I can do to close your wounds or open your eyes to life
And there's nothing I can say to erase those days
You've gotta deal with the hate inside
I see you leaving this world behind
Now there's nothing I can do to close your wounds or open your eyes to life
And there's nothing I can say to erase those days
You've gotta deal with the hate inside
Now there's nothing I can do to close my wounds with memories left behind
And there's nothing I can say to reverse this day or bring you back to life