

In Blood and Fire

Thulcandra

When the moon turns crimson fear
And the serpents arise from the sea
When the beast awakens from its slumber
The dawn of all time to cease will come

In blood and fire
This world will die
In the inevitable darkness
Chaos will rule supreme

The wake of a thousand fears
Shattered illusions of eternal decay
The abyss of the soulless mind
Devouring the mortals' souls

From the throne of the blackest night
Gathering under the signs of evil
The ruinous powers ascend
Bringing forth the flames of the end

With the age of the dark crown
The fall of man begins
Glorious visions of empty spheres
May the numinous order fall into oblivion!