

Love Worth Dying For

Thunder

Tired and weary, and fraying at the seams So disillusioned, I'd forgotten how to dream for just a while I knew a change would have to come

So wrapped up in myself, that I couldn't see the truth
But the moment I looked up, I knew I'd seen the future in your eyes
And my life had just begun

'Cause they can take away the sun and rain
and everything I've ever owned
Let them have it all, 'cause you give me something more A love worth dying for

It's been such a long time, since I felt so strong inside
I know you're the reason and the words can't quite express the way I feel But they're all I have to use

'Cause there ain't nothing in this universe
can hold a candle next to you and now my life's complete, since you opened up the door with a love worth dying for

In the morning when the sunlight hits your face It's such a beautiful collision, that nothing could replace

'Cause they can take away the sun and rain
and everything I've ever owned
Let them have it all, 'cause you give me something more
Oh baby

'Cause there ain't nothing in this universe
can hold a candle next to you
and now my life's complete, since you opened up the
door
with a love worth dying for, mmm