

Today The World Stopped Turning

Thunder

I can't believe the conversation we just had
Came like a bolt out of the blue
You said you couldn't see a future anymore
For me and you

It feels like someone dropped a bomb upon my life
And I can't help wondering who's to blame
You thrust a dagger oh so deep into my heart
And I'm slain, all you left me is the pain

'Cause you stole my soul then you broke my heart
And I don't know why but I'm still yearning
Darling in my mind you've frozen the hands of time
Because today the world stopped turning

I was numb at first but now it's sinking in
Don't think I've felt this way before
It wasn't easy but I let my feelings show
And you slammed the door

I gave you all the space you needed in your life
How could I give you anymore?
You told me that you really didn't understand
So what's the score, what did I take the trouble for?

'Cause you stole my soul then you broke my heart
And I don't know why but I'm still yearning
Darling in my mind you've frozen the hands of time
Because today the world stopped turning
The world stopped turning

I gave you all the space you needed in your life
How could I give you anymore?
You told me that you really didn't understand
So what's the score, what did I take the trouble for?

'Cause you stole my soul then you broke my heart
And I don't know why but I'm still yearning
Darling in my mind you've frozen the hands of time
Because today the world stopped turning
The world stopped turning