

Last Song

Thunderstone

Long after midnight, I'm still wide awake
I'm rolling and sweating, my bed is like a lake
Waiting for my peace, waiting is so hard
How much can I take before I'll get scarred
I fall asleep
And it feels so peaceful and deep
24/7, forever on the run
Pushing to the limit, reaching for the sun
Can't stop, keep going, got a few more things to do
I know that I will burn myself, before I am through
I fall asleep
And it feels so peaceful and deep
I try to foretell the signs in me
But I'm too close and too blind to see
What keeps me going on and on?
Maybe I just want to hear the last song