

Thunder & Lightning

Tiamat

your blood is cold as ice in the summer and you're steaming hot in the winter you lived your life on Baphomet's throne and you are so much like me you hide away from the light and that's how it begins.

forget the sunshine for a while and dance with me into the night

celebrate the thunder and lightning raise your glasses high to the thunder and lightning thank god for the thunder and lightning celebrate tonight

and our smoke is going down and snow is falling outside through laser stroboscopes and I see your face in there you hide away from the light

and that's how it begins
forget the sunshine for a while
and dance with me into the night

celebrate the thunder and lightning
raise your glasses high to the thunder and lightning
thank god for the thunder and lightning
celebrate tonight

through rain and stormy weather with black boots of leather you're the flame, you're the fire fully equipped with dark desires hide away from the light

and that's how it begins
forget the sunshine for a while
and dance with me into the night

celebrate the thunder and lightning
raise your glasses high to the thunder and lightning
thank god for the thunder and lightning
celebrate tonight

the rain the dust the dirt the dark and the thunder and lightning to the south and the north and the east and the west for the thunder and lightning thank god for the flood and the daughters in the blood and for the thunder and lightning