

Christening

Tiffany Darwish

Yes, yes there's a new world dawning
Get dressed, quit dreaming you're falling
Take notes and I'll tell you when you got it right
No, no you can leave your attitude
You're the only one it seems to matter to Count votes and you'll see it in a brand new light

Why can't you be a man about it
Let me turn you into someone new
I'm screaming in a fan
I doubt that any of my words will make it through

This is your christening
Find out what you been missing and
I promise it'll make you fell better
This is your christening
The audience is listening

Baby, baby we're a perfect pairing
Walk in the room and they can't stop staring
I've gotten used to it, I've gotten used to you
You'll never, never land another like me
I think you're clever, please don't try to fight me
Take notes and I'll tell you when you got it right

Why can't you be a man about it
Let me turn you onto something new
I'm screaming in a fan
I doubt that any of my words will make it through

This is your christening
Find out what you been missing and
I promise it'll make you fell better
This is your christening
The audience is listening

This is your christening
Find out what you been missing and
I promise it'll make you fell better
This is your christening
The audience is listening

Why can't you be a man about it
(There's a new world dawning)
We're swimming in a painted fountain
(There's a new world dawning)

This is your christening
Find out what you been missing and
I promise it'll make you fell better
This is your christening
The audience is listening...
