

Queen Of Hearts

Tim O'Brien

Once I lived like a traveler standing at the crossroads of his life
Who knows not where to turn, wonders if he'll ever reach his ho me
I was lost, tired, and waiting, didn't have a reason to go on Days were always dark and at night I felt so all alone

And they say the darkest hour always seems to come before the d awn
But I never knew that it could shine half as bright as you
Now I live in your kingdom I'm the only member of your court
And your my queen of hearts, the one I'll love and serve my who le life through

And they say the darkest hour always seems to come before the d awn
But I never knew that it could shine half as bright as you
Now I live in your kingdom I'm the only member of your court
And your my queen of hearts, the one I'll love and serve my who le life through

And you're my queen of hearts, the one I'll love and serve my w hole life through
