

Moon To Let

Tina Dico

There's a moon to let
In the outskirts of Jupiter, a moon to let
There's an empty space, where the air comes by courier

A moon to let
They say it's cold out there but nothing can be colder than you
You will soon forget how the Earth lost the jury on this moon to let

Pack your bag, let's go.
Won't let any other bad people know
All them that take more than they give every day
Let them stay, when we move into space
Into space, into space, into space

There's an empty bed
And there was once was reasoning
An empty bed
There's a moon to let, and the air has no seasons
And no man has debt
They say it's cold out there, but how could it be colder than here
You will soon forget, when you learn the easy feelings on this moon to let

Pack your bag, let's go.
Won't let any other bad people know
All them that take more than they give every day
Let them stay, when we move into space

Pack your bag, let's go.
Won't let any other bad people know
All them that take more than they give every day
Let them stay, when we move into space
Into space, into space, into space
