I Don't Wanna Lose You

Tina Turner

Women of a certain age They learn to rely and judge all his responses Having played the mating game She doesn't waste time cause all that she wants is Really honest emotions Ones he can't help but show Though I hardly know your name I know about love and I know

I don't want to lose you I don't even want to say goodbye I just want to hold on To this true love, true love

Women who have made mistakes Are a little afraid, they don't like taking chances She will play the waiting game She's never impressed by those manly advances I know I've only just met you Maybe I should know better But when you look at me that way There's something inside that's so right

I don't want to lose you I don't even want to say goodbye I just want to hold on To this true love, true love I don't want to lose you And I always want to feel this way Cause every time I'm with you I feel true love, true love

Tell me you're real You're not pretending Let's make a deal My heart's depending on you
