

Carrying Our Burden

Tom Dice

A wife and husband doing up every time
Sally goes and work, Johnny stays at home
But she has a surprise, she's coming home a little bit earlier
(Ouch!)

And she opens the door, and she asks, "What are you doing here?"

And he answers a little bit arrogant
"Now what does it look like that I am doing here, girl?"
She begins to cry, but she's not the only one right now

Yes we all have to carry our burden, burden
Yes we all have to swallow our pride
And we all have to carry our burden, burden
Yes we all have our reasons to die

And this occasion we've got everytime
And he hasn't easier
So the question he's always asking and need to care for him
And stay with him all the time, I'm getting tired of it
(Ouch!)

So I open the door and he asks, "What am I doing here?"
And I answer a little bit arrogant
"Now what does it look like that you are doing here, man?"
And he begins to cry, but he's not alone right now, no no no

Yes we all have to carry our burden, burden
Yes we all have to swallow our pride
And we all have to carry our burden, burden
Yes we all have our reasons to die

(Yes we all have to carry our burden)
We all, we all have to carry our burden
(Yes we all have to swallow our pride)
We're not alone right now
We've got to live without you now
(And we all have to carry our burden)
Yes we all have our reasons to die
