Tom McRae

Fireworks through the trees City turns away from me My hand raised to say Goodbye, goodbye my love

Wheels roll to the light Sleep kills fevered night And it's easier now It's easier now you're gone

Shadow rise, shadow fall Deaf to siren call a year has died A year since I said your name

Burning in the blue Light comes low and cool And like your love There's no heat in this winter sun.

So please let my heart go Please let my heart go

Walk the world side to side
Place where hidden memories lie
And I buried you there along with your history
Give me sun you give me shade
And seven years of hurricanes
But now my love I'm sundialling my days away

So please let my heart go
'Cause I don't care no more
So please let my heart go
'Cause I don't care no more.
