

Stop Your Fussin

Toni Childs

Why you look so sad when the sky is perfect blue?
And you're getting everything you ever wanted to
Let's not talk about the bad times
We've been through that before
It's not right for making love anymore
So stop your fussin', boy
Please, stop your fussin' boy
Your time will come
Yes, your time will come
Can you lay me down in meadows soft and green?
And can you lay me down and talk to me of things?
Like stars that burn into the night
And moons that turn with purple lines
That's what I want
Just stop your fussin', boy
Please, stop your fussin', boy
Your time will come
Can't you just stop your fussin', boy
Please, stop your fussin', boy
Your time will come
Yes, your time will come
Can someone tell me why it is?
How we could spend so many lonely years?
There's a light at the end of life, it's enough
It's enough, it's enough, it's enough to try
We can see the light
We can feel the warmth
We can see it shine
We can see it all in our lifetime
Why you look so sad when the sky is perfect blue?
And you're getting everything you ever wanted to
So stop your fussin', boy
Please, stop your fussin', boy
Your time will come
Yes, your time will come
Can't you just stop your fussin', boy?
Please, stop your fussin', boy
Your time will come
Yes, your time will come
We can see it in our lifetime
We can see it in our lifetime
We can see it in our lifetime
We can see it in our lifetime
We can see it in our lifetime
We can see it in our lifetime
