Water Out Of Wine

Tony Banks

In the dark it seems so easy now If you could just remember how the problem can be solved The sun comes up lightening the sky But everyday is the same Doubts return and the answers desert you

Fragments fall around you, all shot down in flames Suddenly now you know that it can never be the same All of the hopes and dreams and promises You made have upped and gone Bringing boredom out of wonder, water out of wine, oh

By the fire cheered up by the flames Watching people on the TV thinking I can do the same The sun goes down darkening the sky leave things undecided Lest the thinking cause you pain so everyday is the same You know what to do, just how eludes you

Fragments fall around you, all shot down in flames Suddenly now you know that it can never be the same All of the hopes and dreams and promises You made have upped and gone Bringing boredom out of wonder, water out of wine, oh

Look into the glass can you still recall That bundle of potential that you were when you were young The sun comes up brightening the sky The sun goes down darkening the sky so everyday is the same Till the day when the dreaming is over

Fragments fall around you, all shot down in flames Suddenly now you know that it can never be the same All of the hopes and dreams and promises You made have upped and gone Bringing boredom out of wonder, water out of wine, oh
