

You Just Get Better All The Time

Tony Joe White

You just get better all the time
Darling, don't you change a thing
Lately you're the only song I want to sing
You're my reason to try

You just get sweeter every day
The little things you do and say
If only you could see you through my eyes
You just get better all the time

And I get the feeling I can make it babe
As long as you are by my side
You're the music in my ears
The laughter when the tears
Are falling down in my life

And on down through the years
You never tried to change my ways
You never made me feel I had to say
I'm sorry

You just get better all the time
And just today I heard you read my mind
That kind of magic is so hard to find
You just get better all the time
