Maybe California

Hey Mrs. C, please don't jump why not? Nothing is making sense anymore to me I don't know when I stopped making him smile Now the kids see me crying all the time

From one mother to the other They'll never get over this for their lifetime All their wishes will be dashed upon those cliffs so let's be strong for you and me the night is opening Our angels are falling and they will warm us She asked right now right here I'm feeling so (mad dear)

Maybe California Maybe California

As mothers we have our troubles you'll leave them with emptiness for their lifetime All their wishes will be dashed upon those cliffs So let's be strong you and me the night is opening Our angels are falling and they will warm us She asked right now right here I'm feeling so (mad dear)

Maybe California Maybe California

Until then there will be starlight shining down For every tear and every child
