

Changing Lanes

Touché Amoré

This was never your decision to make.
I still have love, but it's in a different place.
You may consider this my fall from grace.
But had nothing to do with how I was raised.
You did all that you could, with the best intent.
But some things in this world are just not meant to grow.
I'm still your child, but not one of his.