

Don't ask me why
Have you ever wondered why I always drive alone?
Same reasons why I never pick up my phone I got these issues that you can't subscribe
And I'm scared to talk to anyone for what they might prescribe

These days I just try to keep to myself well aware I've lost touch with everyone else I understand that I'm fading away I'd rather play dead than play catch up Because no one really cares all that much I can't keep having the same conversations I look to the floor to keep concentration focused hard on every single word my nails are dug deep and my stomach hurts I am selfish it seems, but I'm trying my best to breathe hoping you don't notice as I keep laughing