

I had a vision of invasion
See two lonely planets collide
Feel the children of our future curl and gnarl
Observing us all the time

Say, my vision today
A daydream gone tomorrow,
Vision today is something to be followed

They scream "aborted!"
Before birth can bring crime
Their twisted hands stretch out and scratch my mind
I told my friends, but their reaction was so unkind

Just, vision today
A daydream gone tomorrow
My vision today is something to be followed.

I walk when it's dark, looking for a friend
Alone in the darkness, I see those things again
I see things I just cannot explain

My lonely mind explodes,
I see strange things no-one can conceive
My mind explodes in inner visions
Then deludes and deserts me

Malignant violence grows
Frequencies visit in the night
Frequencies tell me, tell me again, I forgot
Those words delude and desert me
Malignant violence grows within
My ego expands

Should I take these foolish people, gas them for their sin?
Remove their memories, reprogram them to re-begin?
It makes my lonely mind explode
Should I take these foolish people, gas them for their sin?
Remove their memories, reprogram them to re-begin?
It makes my ego grow

My lonely mind explodes (yet again)
I see strange things no-one can explain
Misty auras are my friends
My insight on destiny treads unseen

Again!