Path Of Reality

Tracedawn

The future unknown. cannot say man or god So may the destiny show us the way We can but hope that it leads us by the path But theres always allurement to turn off the road

But on the edge of road only will-o-wisps play And following them the truth light disappears But why must we follow that dying light

If you stay you'll pine away
If you leave your honour will be history

Creatures of nights mortals of morning Always reaching for the reborning For them are laughing moon and sun Forgotten even they're not eternal

If you stay you'll pine away
If you leave your honour will be history

In silence we walk no sign of tomorrow We travel a long and a winding road We can but hope that it leads us by the path So may the destiny show us the way

If you stay you'll pine away
If you leave your honour will be history
