

Taught My Eyes To Lie

Tracedawn

Make your move tonight I've lost my will to fight

I keep giving you hope But being true oneself, all of it is gone
And again in pain we dwell

Torn in half again, time to recollect Deny being insane - unconscious marionette

Behind you I hide, thought I'd got all it takes I let you be my tide to avoid making mistakes

We had built a new and braver world, But before we could live in it we found ourselves in a war together Sacrificing too much for the fears The size of the enemy blinded us, turned us against each other

Seeing you enjoy what I have left to give It won't let me destroy how we became to live

I need another guide in a life become a hunt I've taught my eyes to lie for they see all I want

We had built a new and braver world, But before we could live in it we found ourselves in a war together Sacrificing too much for the fears The size of the enemy blinded us, turned us against each other

We're caged by illusion, sugar sweet delusion