Treble Charger

If you recall the words I used then
It was before, and things are different
If you look back, you'll find I warned you
And it was you who chose to ignore me

Can you explain my lack of feelings? Did you discuss this with me or not? Can I confront you over me now? Will you remain in your position?

You could suggest a compromise here Would it be fair to take blame for things? Can we agree there's nothing to that? I think it's best that we talk later
