

Anxious Seat

Tree63

I want to whisper something in your ear
This train's not stopping but you don't have to fear
One destination, do you know where it ends?
You've bought the ticket, but so what?

This is not science fiction, baby, here's the deal
Good fights evil every day, it's for real
You're going somewhere, no matter what you believe
I'd check my map if I were you

You'll feel a little strange but it's alright
Everything could turn around tonight
Baby, let me turn on the lights
You will see for miles and miles, it's alright, alright

One thing after another, that's the way that it goes
You ride the consequences of the journey you chose
I'm just like you but I know which way is up
It comes with a guarantee for life

You'll feel a little strange but it's alright
Everything could turn around tonight
Baby, let me turn on the lights
You will see for miles and miles, it's alright, alright
Miles and miles, alright

And if you find you're sitting in the anxious seat
And everything that you've become is incomplete
Stretch out your hand, come on now, get up on your feet
Your tide is turning

Here is something in your ear
You've bought the ticket, check it out

You'll feel a little strange but it's alright
Everything could turn around tonight
Baby, let me turn on the lights
You will see for miles and miles, it's alright

You'll feel a little strange but it's alright
Everything could turn around tonight
Baby, let me turn on the lights
You will see for miles and miles, it's alright, alright

Miles and miles, it's alright, alright
Miles and miles, it's alright, alright
Miles and miles, alright