

You Waste Your Time

Tremonti

You should've seen both faces from the start
Beholden to the hate within your heart
You cast the world aside
In hiding from your burden one more time

But could it be your efforts were in vain?
Could it be your life is full of shame?
You threw it all away
You let it fall to pieces here today

You waste your time
You hide too much, don't ever let me find
What you're thinking, what's in your head?
You ask too much, don't ever let me be
Who are you?

We won't need to take it when you're gone
Won't embrace the lies very long
Well you're afraid to go
And you're afraid to face it when you've lost

All the ties were severed when you came
What if I could mend them once again?
Well you're afraid to learn
Forced to watch those bridges as they burn
Yeah, yeah!

You waste your time
You hide too much, don't ever let me find
What you're thinking, what's in your head?
You ask too much, don't ever let me be
Who are you?

You waste your time
You hide too much, don't ever let me find
What you're thinking, what's in your head?
You ask too much, don't ever let me be
Who are you?
Yeah!
Woah, yeah!
Who are you!