Diagnosis

Tristania

You and I On either side I closed one eye As you confessed Then both So I could see The whole of me through the cracks in you A withered view You said enough It's dead enough In a heartbeat it's over again The twilight is pending The end is descending Said enough It's dead enough I can promise you I love to see you fall You'll only meet me once And for all Be victorious Falling down Be victorious Turning around Be victorious Hitting the ground Be victorious Never to be found