

Desert of No Love

Tygers of Pan Tang

Lost where none can find me,
Burning bridges remind me,
What a fool I have been,
There's no illusion, in the light of day,
So tomorrow has finally come,
I look for the clues,
But every trace has gone,
You have left me

Dying in the desert,
Dying in the desert of no love,
Dying in the desert,
Dying desert of no love,

There are dangers, in talking to strangers,
In the heat of the night,
You telll your secrets and your soul is lost,
I followed you into the night,
But come the dawn,
You were nowhere in sight

All alone I face the sunrise,
I know not what my fate will be,
All too late, now I am wise,
To this spell you cast on me,
That led me to the desert of no love
