

Just Like Yesterday

Tyler Joseph

You're scared
When you say
You talked to them today
When asked your faith

You'll cry
No sound
Wipe the tears with your doubts
And hide again

I can't sleep
It's just taking time off my feet
But my head instead is going a hundred miles a beat
And I'm thinking as I'm sinking
And he's winking at me
Cause they know
Desperation and temptation is free
Do you see?
I can't live this way
Just to write a song to play
Just to stay alive
Just enough to breathe away
Another day
Another face
I will lose another race
Save me now
Cause tomorrow's gone
Just like yesterday

They laugh in your face
Cause they took your grace
But did you give it away
They cry no sound
Wipe the tears with your doubts
And die again

On the eve of a day that's forgotten and fake,
And the trees they await and clouds anticipate,
The start of a day when we put on our face,
A mask that portrays that we don't need grace,
And the meaning and wait of the day is lost without a trace,
On the eve of a day that is bigger than us,
But we open our eyes only because we're told that we must,
And the trees wave their arms and the clouds try to plead,
Desperately yelling out there's something else in this world we need,
And it happens to be free

I won't be afraid,
I won't be afraid
I won't be afraid
He is strong
And I'll live another day
I'll live another day
He is strong
And I won't be afraid

I won't be afraid
He is strong
I'll live

Cause I can't sleep
It's just taking time off my feet
But instead
My heads going a hundred miles a beat
Do you see?
We can't live this way
Just to stay alive
Another day
Another face
Save me now
